John H. McCooey, the Damocratic der of Kings County, changed his mind to-day and gave out a statement ut the scandal in the Second Jucial Edstrict. No later than last night McCocey declared that he thought his proper course would be to pursue "policy of silence."

But when he got to the office of Surte Ketcham, of Kings County, today, he was confronted with a statent lasued by Joe Cassidy the Demceratic leader of Queens, defending Willett and accusing Callahan and Ketcham of tricking the nominee from Queens. Mr. McCooey consulted friends and then issued through the press a statement, which follows, in part: MCCOOLY BAYS PRECEDENT

The only light I can throw upon this subject is that, after a conferof the Democratic leaders, it was conceded that Queens County ras entitled to one nomination. The leaders of Kings County, in deference to the unanimous sentiment of Democratic voters, presented Messra. Ketcham and Callahan, and we did ot know, positively, who was the nominee from Queens would be until the delegates presented Mr. Willett. Apart from this simple statement of fact, which shows that so far as Kings County was concerned our action was in atrict conformity with the rule of political comity, it is, perhaps, in orfor me to say no more at present than that the question which has been raised by our pautical opponents is plainly irrelewant to the general lasues inds or the other allegation is well founded or baseless in any given cannot, I suggest, affect the ind of any intelligent citizen as to the merits of the two parties as they stand confronting each fald, but in the field at large, including the District-Attorney, the andidates for Assembly and Alderman and the candidates also for the county offices.

Callahan and Ketcham, McCooey's plon ragitime players. Ask for a chamboninees, accuse William A. Every Ship Boasts of Its Champions - Some Titles Based on Odd Contests.

Stretching north in the Hudson River from Fifty-seventh street to Spuyten Duyyll is a line of warships that comprise one of the world's biggest navies The ships are big, the guns are big, the shooting ability of the men behind the guns is hig. In fact everything about these ships of Uncle Sam is big.

Each ship is a world in itself. The eight hundred or more men of each crew largely confine their activities and thoughts to the ship on which they serve. Because of this each ship differs from the others. Each has something olgger and better in its membership than the others. Each has its champion in some line. The championship attainments of the sallors on the various warships have a wide range. There's the champion checker player, the champion strong man, the champion ace and deuce players, the champton ple eater, the champion buck and wing dancer, champlen bantamweight fighters and cham-RIVALRY BOUND TO BREED

SOME SORT OF CHAMPION. The spirit of rivairy between the various ships is keen. That is why cham-plons are so abundant. If a ship finds that it cannot produce the champion fighter of the fleet it proceeds to develop ffice, and frankly announces that he the champion ple eater or the champion minks it has swamped the Democratic pinochle player or the champion lasy man. Some sort of a champion who made several futile stiempts to score a field goal.

The teams will meet again at Van Cortlandt Park at a o'clock Wednesday morning, but as the fleet leaves the North River Thursday the championship will have to be determined in another city.

There was a great throng of sallormen and their sweethearts out to witness to-day's games and the wildest enthusiasm prevailed. Unbiased observers declared that the per capita noise even excelled that which characterises college contests on the griditon. A seal of the search of the fleet in L. R. Hemmings.

These ship champions are lionised as no long haired poet is lionized at an afternoon reception by dreamy-eyed women who recken culture by the quantity of tea they consume. In fact, a ship champion, in the eyes and opinions of the enlisted personnel of the beat, is a higger man by far than the begilded gentleman on the bridge who controls the destiny of the powerful fighting levisthan. As a rule ships' commanders are not worshipped by the weapers of the bell mouthed trousers. Champions are.

And, while drawing comparisons between the ship's champion, it mists be said that when it comes to strutting, the best pie enter or the best pinochle player or the linghtweight champion can sive lessons to the man who loarned how to strut at the expense of the Government at Annapolis. The only difference in the struiting is that the can struts on the quarteredek and the other below decks. To a parapirase Kipling—Jackic Tar and the captain are brothers under the skin.
